

Primo Central Index Collection List - eBook

The following list contains information about the coverage of key collections in the Primo Central Index. A collection is covered by Primo Central if:

- The collection is indexed or in the process of being indexed in Primo Central following an agreement between Ex Libris and the collection provider.
- Ex Libris does not have an agreement with the collection provider to index the content of the collection, but some coverage of the titles included in the collection is available through other collections already indexed or in the process of being indexed. In this case, the list indicates the percentage of the collection's current coverage in Primo Central.

Information included in the list:

Collection - name of the collection.

Collections marked with (*) are available to users from subscribing institutions only. All other collections are freely searchable by all Primo Central customers.

Provider - the provider of the content to Primo Central.

Content Type(s) - type of materials included in the collection.

Status -

(i) Indexed - the collection has been loaded to Primo Central and is now searchable.

(ii) In progress - we have an agreement with the collection provider to index this collection and will be loading it to Primo Central in the coming months.

(iii) Current coverage of titles available from alternative providers - we do not yet have an agreement with the collection provider to index the content of the collection. Current coverage of many of the titles stems from other collections already indexed or in the process of being indexed in Primo Central.

Index Coverage - percentage of the collection's coverage in the Primo Central Index.

() coverage is measured at the title level and only for current titles with an ISSN/e-ISSN.

Coverage by Usage - percentage of 'used' journal articles included in the collection and covered by the Primo Central Index. Usage is calculated based on SFX request logs, gathered for bX from hundreds of academic institutions worldwide. This statistic is provided only with respect to collections covered via alternative resources. By 'used', we refer to those articles that were selected by users.

() coverage is measured at the article level and only for current titles with an ISSN/e-ISSN.

Subject Headings/Keywords - keywords and subject headings of records from the collection are indexed. The term Unknown is used with respect to collections for which Ex Libris does not currently have an agreement with the collection provider to index its content.

Full Text Searchable - the full text of records from the collection is indexed. The term Unknown is used with respect to collections for which Ex Libris does not currently have an agreement with the collection provider to index its content.

Open Access - indication whether the collection includes open access content. Possible values are 'Yes', 'No', and 'Partial'.

Deep API Access & Coverage - the collection is searchable via an API. All collections available on the EBSCOhost platform are fully searchable, subject to the individual library's license of EBSCO databases.

Available via MetaLib - the collection is searchable via MetaLib. If you have MetaLib activated in your Primo system, the resource is available via Primo as a metasearch target.

Rows listed in bold have been added to the most recent version of the document.
